BOB WOOD REPORTS:

By BOB WOOD
Monterey County Assemblyman

Although gasoline is more plentiful than it has been for some time, its current retail price is nearly double that of a year ago.

Pointing to record oil company profits, several state Legislators have characterized this dramatic increase as "un-justified" and "artificial." In hopes of protecting California motorists from further industry abuses, the legislators have introduced measures which would place most of the state's major oil companies under the regulation of the Public Utilities Commission (PUC).

Under this proposed legislation, oil companies, like California's power, water and telephone companies, would have their rates and general operating procedures set by the PUC. However, the most important consideration is whether or not the PUC regulation will achieve its major purpose; the reduction of gasoline prices.

According to a recent State Attorney General's report on the status of California's oil companies, the answer to this question is a definite "no." In Attorney General Evelle Younger's words, he says: we ought to stimulate competition in the industry...PUC control might cut prices in the short run, but it would also curtail exploration and decrease competition. This would tend, he says, to keep prices up.

However, Mr. Younger proposed that the PUC be given regulatory powers over intra-state petroleum pipelines. There is evidence to suggest, said Younger, that independent oil companies have been denied access to pipelines belonging to the "major" companies. Strict PUC regulation of these pipelines can be expected to lead to lower gasoline prices since it would increase the availability of gasoline to the independent dealers.

Younger concluded that in the absence of a shortage, gasoline prices will come down if the major companies are forced to compete for sales to retail outlets. The Attorney General went on to say quite the opposite will be achieved if certain legislators have their way and California's oil companies are placed under the absolute control of the Public Utilities Commission.

KNOW YOUR COUNTY GOVERNMENT

By WILLARD BRANSON
Fifth District Supervisor

Another one of the departments in the county government is the Department of Public Health. Its basic function is to protect, maintain, and improve the health of the citizens of Monterey County. With a staff of about 170 persons and a budget of approximately $5 million annually, the Health Department is concerned with the prevention and control of disease and with the protection of our community from disease.

A look at certain of the major programs of the health department will show how this department executes its preventive health functions.

The immunization program is designed to reduce the incidence of communicable disease by providing immunizations and encouraging public participation. The health department offers immunizations for polio, small pox, typhoid, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough and cholera. All these diseases are under an acceptable level of control at the moment, but they have not been eradicated. All of us should keep our immunizations up to date -- particularly children.

The objective of the environmental health program is to identify and eradicate environmental health hazards. This is the work of health department sanitarians who enforce environmental health laws and legally established standards through inspections and investigations, and issuance of permits, when appropriate. The sanitarians are concerned with water supplies, restaurants, bakeries, food stores, swimming pools, public beaches, pet shops, milk supplies, and solid and liquid waste disposal.

The venereal disease control program was instituted in an effort to reduce the number of new cases of venereal disease, and the health department carries out an active program of case finding, diagnosis, and treatment in regularly scheduled clinics. Persons known to have been exposed to the disease are encouraged to consult their private physicians or to visit one of the venereal disease clinics conducted by the health department.

CLINIC DIAGNOSIS and treatment is provided to patients in the strictest of confidence. In its public education programs, the health department seeks to develop public awareness of the prevalence of the disease, of its symptoms, and of ways to guard against it.

One of the health department's largest programs is the family planning program. The purpose is to make family planning services available to women throughout the county so that each may choose when and if she wishes to have a child.

The basic objective is to reduce the number of unwanted pregnancies. Twenty-nine family planning clinics are conducted each month by the health department at locations throughout the county where birth control information, services, and supplies are available to anyone who wishes to take advantage of these services.

Another of the health department's major programs is mental health services. The function of the program is to assist those with mental, emotional, and socio-behavioral problems.

To provide for these needs, the county's mental health services program offers a comprehensive range of treatment facilities, including out-patient clinics; a day treatment center for patients who do not require 24-hour a day treatment, supervision, and care; short-term in-patient care at two of the hospitals in the county; and long-term care in state hospitals.

Certain of these services are provided by the Natividad Medical Center in Salinas and by the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula through contract with the health department and the county.

As a part of the mental health services program, the director of health services also serves as the public conservator for more than 100 persons who have been determined by the courts to be gravely ill and unable to care for themselves.

--To be concluded next week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. While there is no limit on the number of words, please write only enough material to adequately cover the subject. Anonymous letters are not acceptable, but names may be withheld upon request.

Dear Editor:

Our home and livestock were seriously threatened by the recent Cachagua fire. We cannot begin to express out thanks to the many men who came to help, without being asked to. Most of them were Cachagua residents. They stayed and fought the fire, even in the face of personal danger. We would like to commend the forestry department for their efficiency and thoroughness. With everyone's help our home was saved. Thank you isn't enough.

KEN & JOANNE HOAG
Carmel Valley

Dear Editor:

On Saturday, July 20, the mountain behind our houses was set on fire. Flames roared up that hillside faster than a cat could run. You could see the fire suddenly spring up out of nowhere, spreading toward the canyon and Rancheria.

A slight shift in the wind and fire would have leaped the Grade, traveling wind-swept to Miramonte and into Los Ranchitos.

On Sunday we were still talking about the Saturday fire when another flamed into the sky. This one in beautiful Cachagua and catastrophic in its threat to the entire Valley. Our Carmel Valley volunteer Fire Department worked eight hours on that one too; this, after spending Saturday fighting the Laureles Grade fire.

While a fire is raging, most of us stand by as spectators ready to depart fast if the standing-by should become dangerous.

But firemen risk their lives to protect your property and mine, your life and mine. Our own firemen, here in the Valley, are not paid to do this. They fight fire as a service to the community.

It seems to me that it would be a nice thing to thank our own Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department in the good old-fashioned American way: with money. Perhaps we could accumulate enough to help our Department buy asbestos suits. They have none.

But I would not suggest that we attach strings to the gift. I am sure that Chip Collins knows what is best for the Department and for the safety of the Valley.

If you are willing to contribute, will you please make out your check to Carmel Valley Vol. Fire Department and mail it to Chief Chip Collins. Thank you.

Schedule of public hearings

Planning Commission

Batch Plant: On Wednesday, August 14, a public hearing will be held in the supervisor's chambers in the county courthouse in Salinas to consider a request for a reclassification of two acres in Martin Canyon from the present residential agricultural zoning to general commercial for operation of a commercial concrete batch plant. The hearing was continued from July 10.

Laguna Robles: A public hearing will be held to approve the use permit for the Laguna Robles development on Carmel Valley Road, near Esquiline. The meeting is scheduled for 10:30 a.m., August 6 in the supervisor's chambers at the county courthouse in Salinas. The planning commission already approved the rezoning permit at its last meeting July 10.

School Board

Bay School: The fate of Bay School (The little red school house) will be the main topic of debate at the Carmel Valley School Board meeting at 7:30 p.m., August 7. The board will also adopt the Publication Budget, with final approval on August 15. The school board meeting is open to the public.

Hearing Officer

Rio Road Motel: A public hearing will be held at 10 a.m. on August 9 before County Health Officer William Stoffers on a draft environmental impact report for a proposed 127-room motel and restaurant to be located on two acres north of Rio Road at the mouth of Carmel Valley; a use permit request was filed by the developer, Carmel Valley Properties Inc. of Monterey.

Odello purchase now finalized

Half the battle for the Odello artichoke fields has been won.

When Bruno Odello took the podium in Carmel City Council chambers last Friday afternoon, the atmosphere was one of relief and mutual congratulation. "I for one would like to say that I'm delighted the situation has come to such a pleasant and agreeable conclusion," commented Councilman Olof Dahlstrand.

Earlier last week in Sacramento, the state Public Works board approved a final purchase agreement with the Odellos for acquisition of the western 155 acres of the artichoke fields located adjacent to Highway 1 at the mouth of the Carmel Valley. Barring any unexpected complications in the transfer of funds over the next few weeks, the land will be purchased by the state with the intention of developing it into a state park.

The price of the land has been set at $1.593 million. The major portion of those funds ($1.14 million) will be contributed by the state under the auspices of the Bagley Conservation Fund. In addition, the city of Carmel will provide $100,000, and the Odello Land Acquisition Fund (OLAF) will contribute $254,000 in cash and land valued at $30,000.

The July 26 special meeting of the council was called by Mayor Bernard Anderson to take formal action on the release of city funds formerly pledged to the purchase. While there was some hesitation expressed by Councilman Gunnar Norberg who objected to the fact that all documents related to the purchase agreement had not been received by the council inspection, a motion to expend the $100,000 passed unanimously.

While the state has formulated no definite plans as to when development of the land will begin, or what type of park will be undertaken Charles Mehler of the California Department of Parks and Recreation told the Pine Cone last week that "no sophisticated park development will be planned."

"There'll be no ball parks or playgrounds," he explained. "Probably we'll have some sort of day use, but there'll be no over-night camping. One of our basic intentions in acquiring the property is to maintain the view of the ocean from Highway 1."

"One of the things I'd personally like to see us do is to remove the dike on the property, after the Odellos have vacated it of course, and allow the natural seasonal inundation of the land from the Carmel River. It would be interesting to see if the natural vegetation and habitats would re-establish themselves," he said.

Under the purchase agreement, the Odellos will continue to cultivate the land for an indefinite period of time up until the state is ready to begin its development. Bruno Odello told city councilmen last Friday that he hopes to continue to farm the land "for up to 20 years."

He explained that the state has agreed to lease the land back to his family for 5 years, with an option to extend that lease on a year by year basis. The Odellos will pay $12,500 per year in rental on the property, plus a usage tax of $30 to $50 per acre. He said that his family will be paying more to continue farming the land than other ranchers in the Carmel Valley will be paying for similar uses, but he said that his family had been "willing to compromise."

"In order to keep the environment the way we want it we have made compromises," he said. "Now that an agreement has been reached we are happy and hope we can put all this behind us and get on with our work."

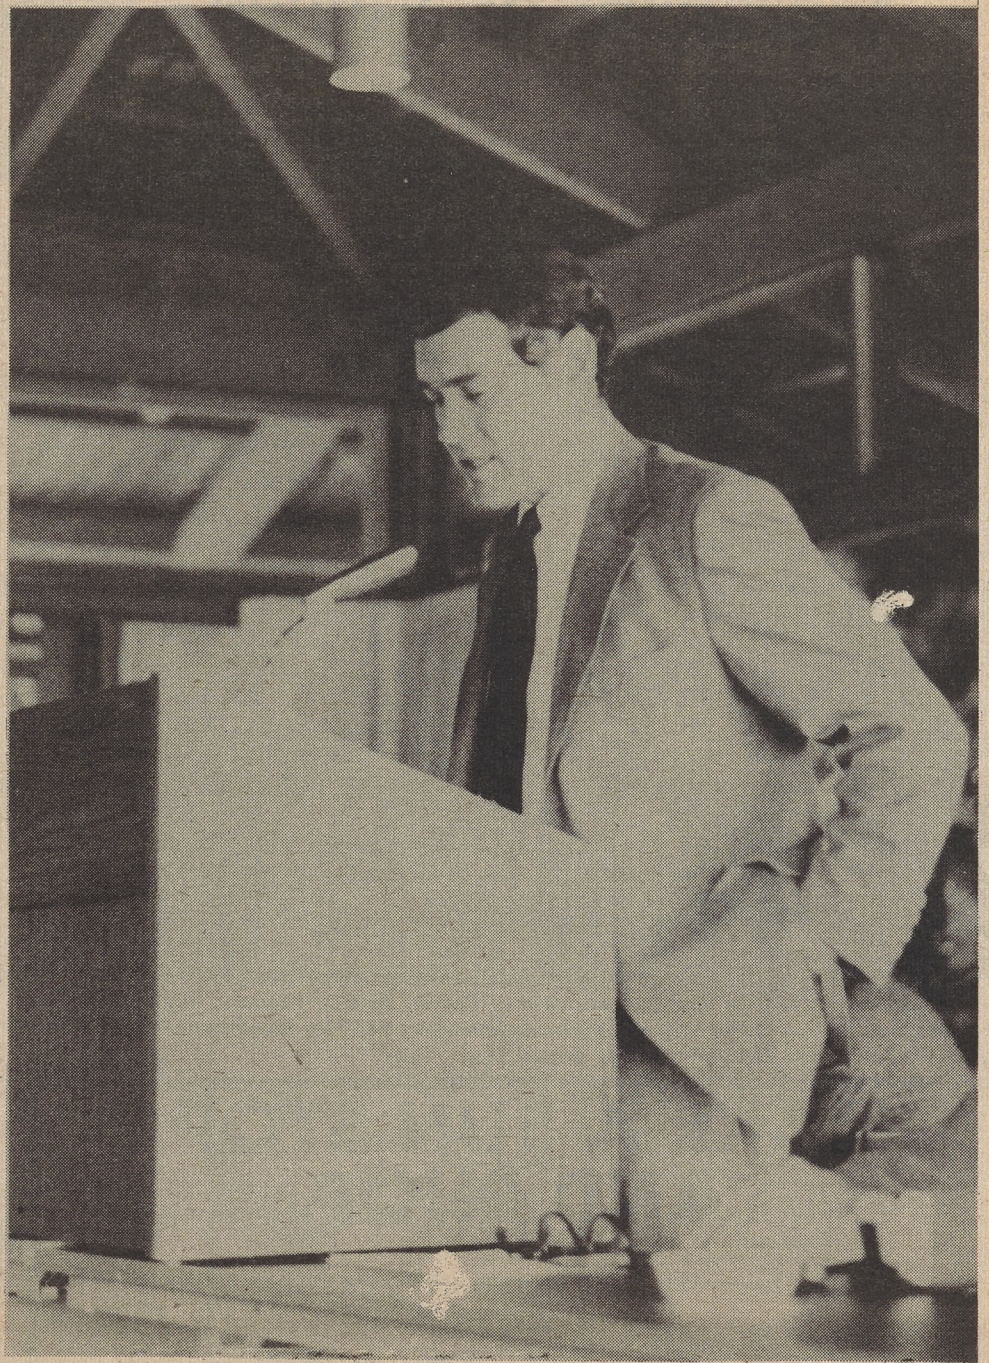

Odello has however acknowledged that his family is looking for other farmable land. The prospectus of the Odello artichoke enterprise, he explained, is now contingent on the sale of the eastern portion of the fields at the mouth of the Valley.

Currently, the Cristiana Development Company of Los Angeles holds an option on development of that tract and has proposed construction of a hotel and residential units. The eastern portion of the land is also under consideration by the Carmel Sanitary District as a potential site for secondary waste treatment. An engineering survey is now underway to assess the feasibility of secondary effluent treatment on that land.

When questioned by members of the council about the status of the eastern portion of the artichoke fields, Odello stated "I think that the Cristiana people will be willing to reach some kind of a compromise. It's all up to the Sanitary District and their engineers now."

"I certainly hope," responded Councilman Norberg, "that the eastern land can be purchased and leased back to you so that you can continue farming it and keep it open space."

Regarding the current purchase agreement on the western tract, Mayor Anderson stated, "it's taken three years, but I think this is one of the finest accomplishments of the city. It can be viewed as a milestone in saving farmland which is disappearing throughout the state."

HOUSTON I. FLORNOY, speaking to the California Manufacturers Association, Thursday, at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club said that if he is elected governor of the state that he would propose an economic council of advisors to aid the state in the "difficult economic problems that face the state and the nation today."

Valley arsonist still at large

"Citizens are our biggest break in arson cases," says a representative of California Division of Forestry.

There have been twelve arson-caused fires on wild lands in Monterey County in the past six weeks. Rangers, who learn to trace a fire back to its origins as part of their training, speculate that the 1600 acre Cachagua blaze and several smaller fires have been set by the same person or persons.

Seven Salinas area juveniles apprehended while throwing lighted milk cartons out the window of their car in the Arroyo Seco area are not thought to be responsible for the other fires. No pattern or motive, such as a grudge against a particular landowner, has been determined. The fires which have been set by similar methods at several different points by someone utilizing motorized transportation, such as a car or motorcycle, appear to be random.

Ranger Weston of Carmel Hill Forestry Station notes that arsonists usually drive back and forth through an area to "case" it before setting the initial blaze. Often they use devices that give them a get away time of twenty minutes to half an hour. Weston asked residents of outlying areas to be particularly observant of strange vehicles, their license numbers and occupants.

The Division of Forestry has an active fire prevention program against accidental fires or those caused by carelessness. Illegal campers on public or private land are paying fines of $120 to $150 dollars for their illegal campfires even if those are in camp stoves or lanterns.

A Prunedale man whose welding rig caused a grass fire as he cut pipe has been fined $500 with a year's probation.

Two young women are working this summer as fire prevention aides. Jean Reinecker of Gonzales has been visiting homes and ranches in the Arroyo Seco area. Teri Jaseau of Carmel has called upon homeowners from the mouth of the Valley southward and has presently worked her way as far up the Valley as Country Club Drive.

Their job is to check structures for the legally required 30 foot clearance of fire hazards. They also watch for such fire hazards as screens over the fireplace, branches above a fireplace chimney, leaves on the roof, illegal incinerators etc.

There is no county wide ordinance which requires fields or vacant lots to be cleared of brush and weeds which are conducive to fires when dry. Fire Districts have the right to pass their own local ordinance. Carmel Valley Fire Chief, Chip Collins, has significantly reduced fire hazards in the Carmel Valley Village area by personally acquainting landowners with the need to take care of dangerous conditions.

Fire roads and access gates are not legally required although most ranchers build and maintain them.

Planning Commission approves Riverside Park permit

A renewal permit was granted to Riverside Park by a unanimous vote taken by the Planning Commission, Wednesday, in the Supervisor's Chambers in Salinas.

The permit allows the park to continue under the same conditions as set forth in the past year.

Nicholas Neddelcove's application differs this year, in that it requests a residence be added to the property, which would serve as a home for Neddelcove's maintenance assistant. The residence would be a mobile home, parked on a 2-trailer sight instead of a 1-trailer sight.

Opposition to the permit for the residence came from Bill Brown, Chairman of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, (CV-POA).

"We started with ten sights and we get an increase each year," Brown said. "Twelve years ago we had ten mobile homes and now we have 35."

Commissioner Evans agreed with Brown saying "If we don't watch out, we'll be going from a campground into a mobil home park.

But Brown apparently decided to give into the park permit recommendation, adding the stipulation that the Planning Commission look into the girl living in the tool shed on Neddelcove's property. The tool shed itself is not classified as a residence.

The Commission passed the permit unanimously, adding that the commission will look into the tool shed situation.

"GO-AHEAD" GIVEN TO HIGH MEADOW

High Meadow Subdivision, a 345-unit project of clustered homes and dedicated green space, received a go-ahead signal from the County Planning Commission last week after seven years of delay caused by uncertainty as to the route of the proposed freeway.

It's location, is east of Highway One between Rancho Mar Monte and various Carmel Hills subdivisions.

As the usual lot size in Carmel is 10,000 sq. ft. and constitutes what the county considers an urban standard, High Meadows was planned and a transitional buffer between urban Carmel and rural Carmel Valley. Lot sizes were assigned according to a formula based on gradient of land, requiring lots at 20-40 per cent slope to be twice the basic module area, and lots above 40 per cent slope to be doubled again. The number of houses indicated by this formula was then grouped into clusters in order to put a scenic easement on about two-thirds of the area and to preserve essentially all of the trees on the site.

The land also dedicated remains private and belongs to the homeowners, but the easement prevents it from becoming further subdivided or developed in any way. The subdivision plan won an award for excellence from Sunset Magazine in 1961 and has been cited since by several architectural magazines.

Besides the Special Treatment zoning, the property was classified R-1-B-6, (single family residential) with lots as specified on the subdivision map, the open space was placed in an O classification. All rezonings go to the Board of Supervisors for confirmation and then require a 30-day waiting period before the application for a use permit can be approved. Any controls or restrictions which the Planning Department wishes to put on the subdivision will be written into the use permit.

BLAZE HALTED NEAR LAUREL DRIVE

Last Saturday morning at 10:49 the Fire Department answered an emergency alarm at Deer Meadow Place, off Lower Laurel Drive.

With a brisk southwest breeze blowing, the blaze was spreading rapidly down toward Toyon Way. Chief "Chip" Collins said four trucks and 13 men from Carmel Valley arrived at the scene. One-fourth acre of grass and brush burnt off before the blaze was under control at 11:35.

"The fire started from hot ashes from a barbecue dumped in a grassy area," Captain Don Laird said. But for the collective efforts of our efficient firemen, as well as a truck and four men from Tulare City, the blaze could have spread down on to Toyon Way or crawled up the hill. In either event, residences would have been endangered.

"This is the only fire we've had this week," chief Collins reported, "It is a fair record, but none for the coming week would be even better."

CVPOA BACKS MULTI-PURPOSE DAM

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association unanimously voted last night their approval for a multi-purpose dam on the Carmel River.

Their stamp of approval was for the records only, however. "We realize that any proposed dam will probably be through years of public hearings and study groups," said CVPOA chairman Bill Brown.

A multi-purpose site would be open to fishing and other recreational activities, in contrast to a facility being used for water storage and flood control only.

In other actions the group turned down a request from board member Victoria Gibson that the CVPOA become interveners in the current Odello lawsuit.

"We will not become a part of any lawsuit," Brown said. Another member suggested that the entire organization membership be polled before any such action be considered.

THE PERFECT HOST
 Rose table wines are extremely adaptable to any food or occasion. An ideal companion for the ham and prawn features in this week's ad would be Sebastiani Mountain Vin Rose. This is a medium dry wine with a trace of sweetness. Like a white wine, a three hour chilling period is recommended. The superb growing area of the Napa, Sonoma and Mendocino counties are the only source of grapes for Sebastiani wine.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

MEMORIES OF fifty Golden Years mingled with the perfumes of flowers flown from Hawaii at the buffet dinner party given recently in Sonoma honoring Valleyites, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Adelmeyer who were married in the Islands.

From "Under the Palms and Among the Orchids" to "Under the Oaks and Among the Cacti" came an item clipped from the Honolulu Advertiser about a very special event in the lives of a La Rancheria couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Adelmeyer. Mailed from Kapaa, Kauai, H.I., the note from a column, "The Bottom Line" said: "Several Islanders, including Dick Rodgy, Carita Rodby, Porter Dickinsons, Jimmy Pflueger and Norma Jacobson, off to California this week to help celebrate the 50th anniversary of Ray and Evalani Adelmeyer, long time Kauai residents when Ray owned Universal motors..."

The Golden wedding anniversary festivities took place in Sonoma at the home which overlooks Lake Josephine of the celebrants' daughter and husband, Lt. Col. (USA ret.) and Mrs. William C. Johnson, who co-hosted the affair with the Adelmeyers' other daughter and family, the L. Lee Coopers of Taft, California.

The atmosphere of that Honolulu wedding in 1924 on June 27th was recreated with a profusion of flowers--maile, ginger, orchids, anthuriums--fresh pineapple, leis, and a troop of Hawaiian entertainers, the James Yee Hoy singers, all flown from Honolulu for the occasion.

The fifty relatives and close friends attending toasted the couple with champagne as they cut their tiered wedding cake while "Ke Kaleneiau", the Hawaiian wedding song, was sung by Dutchie White, a long time friend of the family.

Among those attending were; Mrs. June Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kamerer of Carmel Valley; Mrs. Adelmeyer's sister, Mrs. Roy Jacobson of Honolulu who returned to the Valley for a visit; and Mr. Adelmeyer's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hank Adelmeyer of Monrovia.

Also Mrs. Darr Alkire, who first introduced the couple, came from Salt Lake City; Mrs. Del Bates who was organist at the couple's wedding came from Vallejo; Dr. and Mrs. Kao Daily from Pleasanton also attended.

Very special guests at the buffet supper were the honorees five grandchildren and Mrs. Chandler Burgess of Sausalito who recently celebrated her 100th birthday.

Title I workshop at Tularcitos

A two day Title I Workshop set up by the program's advisory committee was well attended according to instructors Sue Venturelli and Evelyn Holmes, Title I Reading and Math specialist teacher.

Discussion at the sessions covered:

2. Role of Advisory Committee.
3. Conditions Affecting the Selection of Tularcitos as Title I School.
4. Aspects of Comparability.
5. Who is Eligible for Help in Program at Tularcitos?
6. Why do We Believe That the Younger Child Should be Considered More Eligible than the Older Child?

7. What Type of Child Benefits?
8. How Are These Children Identified?
9. What are Some Types of Altered Learning Processes?
10. How are these Disabilities Identified?
11. What Can be Done After the Disability is Identified?
12. Teacher Accountability.
13. Teaching the Child Who Has Learning Difficulties.
14. Techniques for Working with Children.
15. The Math Program.
16. The Reading Program.

In addition to Title I Reading Aide, Grace Evans and Title I Math Aide, Margie O'Hara, those participating included the Math I Volunteers; Tracy Gool, Gail Buche, Sylvia Panetta, Eva Doleman, Gerdi Starr and Eva Doelman. Also Soraya Nernill, Chris Talley, Illia Thompson, Sandy Cisneros, Linda Gorham, Ann Gilsensen, Beverly Paik, Margaret Tucker, Carol Gates and Lucy Smithson.

Barracuda Divers 1974 Championships

The Carmel Barracuda Divers were named Tri-County 1974 Champions following Saturday's finals at the Monterey Peninsula College. It is the ninth year the Carmel Unified District sponsored Diving Team has claimed the title, having worn the crown from 1963-1970 and reclaiming it again last year. The "Champs" were coached at the CHS diving well by Robert Horn & in the Valley by Sandy Swiess. Officials scored the event:

Color guard competition

Monterey County Color Guard Competition held annually at the Carmel Valley Riding Center was won this year by the Carmelo 4-H group led by 4-H Junior leader, Brenda Clough.

Riders including Lori Vandervort, Anna Williams, Tami Clough and Brenda Clough will appear at the Monterey County Horse Show afternoon and evening performances next Friday and Saturday. They will also serve as color guard at the annual Labor Day Horse Show sponsored by the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club.

The Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club Team made up of Lori Vandervort and Brenda Clough will appear at the Horse Show next Thursday.

Marina's T.C. Trotters with riders Pam Lockwood, Suzy Caston, Rana Titus, and Missy Haythornwhite were awarded third place. The Trotters wearing western costumes of blue and silver will appear this Wednesday.

The colorful Carmel Valley Riding Club Indians placed fourth and will appear on Monday and Tuesday. "Six little Indians" include: Stormie Hale, Dawn Hale, Sunset Hale, Toria Lambert, Maria Thayer, and Laura Rossi.

The Contest is held annually and open to any mounted group representing an organization.

The 1974 judges were: Bob Trenner, Del Rey Oaks, Diane Hogel, Fort Ord, and Jan Chiak of Carmel Valley.

Get Well

A speedy recovery to ailing Valley-ites; Master Stephen Cummings who was hospitalized with a broken elbow--Mrs. Leland (Dorothy) Long--Capt. Thomas McKiernon--Dr. Edward Chapman--and Mrs. Santos Corona.

Clock returned

Time flies in Carmel Valley - but off the wall and into the back of a pick-up truck? Don't be ridiculous! "An old oak leaf cluster" to the gentleman who found the oversized time piece taken from over the entrance to the Carmel Valley General store in the back of his truck and returned it to Ken "Father Time" Van Hagen for re-installation. Most clocks in public places tick placidly on forever observing the chaos in the world around them but seldom becoming as actively involved as our faithful Village Clock whose face frequently registers indignation and who hands point more often to "Victim of circumstance" than twenty minutes past the hour!

Swimmers compete for championship

With a perfect record of meets won during the 1974 season and a firm hold on their 1973 crown the Carmel Barracuda Swim Team coached by Larry Challis, Thad Sigourney, Rich Holin, Larry Jun, and Chad Hoffman, enter Tri-County Division II Championships this Saturday and Sunday. The meet is hosted at Sherwood Gardens by the Salinas Recreation Team.

The Barracuda Mermen last week hosted the Santa Cruz Boys Club and entered a final score in their record book of Carmel: 186 - Santa Cruz - 141. An Intersquad meet was held at the same time for the girls. Award winning times were made by:

Little bit of heaven in

By BETTY BARON

It is a little bit of heaven.

The Wiley's own name for their golden acres of apricots in Arroyo Seco is hand-printed on large signs as you approach their fruit stand.

WILEY'S APRICOT HEAVEN.

And the boy-manned stand seems to attest to the fact that this wonderful, healthful way of life has made "angels" of the Wiley boys and their friends. They spend their days either picking, washing, cutting and drying the beautiful golden fruit, or taking turns selling it at the stand.

Of course, they have help during the busy July rush days. Twenty to 25 young girls from the neighborhood, and some as far away as San Jose, are hired (at $1.50 a lug) as cutters averaging between $500 and $600 during the month. They work in a sunny "patio" adjacent to the Wiley's home...at long barbecue tables. There's plenty of time for chatter and fun as they cut the fruit and place it on long, 12-ft. wooden trays to be carried out to the acreage allotted for drying. There are three adults who help, manning the fork lift and other heavy equipment...otherwise the work is all done by young people ranging in age from the Wiley's own John, age 8, to a young lady of 18 from Gonzales.

The Wiley's children are Cathy, 15, Mike, 13, Richie, 10, and John. It was when they began growing up that Craig Wiley decided they should have a regular summer job, to teach them to be responsible, to learn how to work and how to respond to a quality project that is constructive. "I wanted them to become aware of quality, whatever the product, and to be proud of what we produce here on the ranch," Wiley said. "When a housewife goes into a supermarket to shop, she makes selections from what looks good. She cannot make a comparison between the taste, say, of two heads of lettuce. So, appearance of the product is what counts."

Apricots are only one of 17 crops the Wiley's grow. During the year corn, sugar beets, carrots, lettuce and broccoli are among the leading produce, as well as barley and alfalfa...and sheep and cattle, of course.

All the Wiley's children have become ardent bakers, too, producing in Sally Wiley's kitchen, in addition to some mess, the most delicious apricot-nut bread I've ever tasted. Ray Simmons, a young friend who helps at the stand, wouldn't let me buy a loaf. He said, disarmingly, "A little PR goes a long way. Take this one and eat it on the way home."

Craig and Sally Wiley are 4th generation residents of Monterey County and met at the University of California at Berkeley. They have been in the apricot business only four years, but are now cutting fifty tons of fresh apricots which they ship directly to Hollister and Suisun for drying. Fifteen tons are dried right at the ranch and packaged under the brand name "Seco." The children do the packaging also.

Drying of apricots is not a simple process. It involves washing and rewashing the apricots, then sulphuring them, dividing the fancy apricots from what Sally Wiley calls "tidbits"...the broken or torn halves. There are two different prices stamped on the packages, naturally, before they are shipped.

But that isn't all. The pits have a destiny, too. They are sold by the ton. The outside of the pit is used for charcoal. And for jet motors! An oil extract from the center of the pit, which is ground and mashed, is used for lotion and face creams...a delightful fragrance!

It's too late to take the beautiful drive to Arroyo Seco this year to see for yourself the golden heaven. The season ended the last of July. But keep it in mind for next year, any day after July 1. You won't find Sally Wiley and the boys there now, anyway, since she and Craig are two of the founders of the Mt. Hermon Christian Association Conference Grounds in the Santa Cruz mountains, and they have gone up there on vacation.

To get to the Wileys, just stay on the Carmel Valley Road past the Village until you reach the Arroyo Seco bridge...cross over, turn right and you'll run right into the Wiley's ranch. They'll guide you back to the highway so you can visit the boys at the stand.

From there, it's an easy drive via Gonzales to Monterey and the Peninsula...or you can re-trace your tire marks back through the lovely Arroyo into the setting sun in Carmel Valley.

MPC Players will present 'Luv'

The Monterey Peninsula College Players will complete their summer drama season with a repertoire of two plays in the SRO Theatre. Opening Thursday, Aug. 1 is the Broadway comedy production "LUV" and "Company," the comedy musical will open on Thursday, Aug. 8.

"LUV" was the first production to open the college's new SRO Theatre, and is being brought back this summer for a two-week run with performances on Aug. 2-4, 6-7 and 14-15. The leading characters are Jane Evans and Ben Luedtke as "Ellen" and "Milt Manville." Dennis Deutsch is "Harry Berlin."

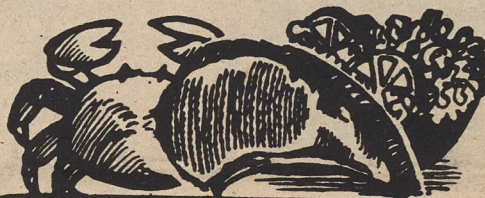

"LUV" is the tale of the trials and tribulations of two schoolmates, "Milt" and "Harry" who are driven apart by "Ellen." All have received disappointments in life and have embellished these with familiar pseudo-sufferings and other face-saving humilities and defenses designed to "leave the audience rolling in the aisles," according to director Ron Boyer.

"Company" opens on Aug. 8 with other performances on Aug. 9-11 and 16-18. It was the winner of the New York Drama Critics Circle Award in 1971 for "Best Musical" and stars Michael Byrne as "Robert" with Steff Cunningham, David Friedland, Lisa Burroughs, Eleanor Wylde, Audrey Swanson, Steve Barnes, Nancy Servies, Nor Reyob, Billie Lee, Pat Terman, Joanie Griggs and Ed Mooney.

Set in a present day New York situation, "Company" is the story of a single man, "Robert" and his relationships with several of his married friends and some of his single ones.

Reservations for the small theater are suggested and can be made by calling the MPC Theater Box Office at 375-0455. Tickets are $1.50 general and $1 for students and military.

'La Dolce Vita' at Tantamount

Federico Fellini's 1960 sensational blockbuster of a film, "La Dolce Vita," comes to the Tantamount Theater tonight, Saturday and Sunday night. All three showings will start at 8 p.m. because of the length of the film; doors open at 7:30.

In "La Dolce Vita" Fellini reveals the decadent and often depraved life of contemporary Rome to create a modern morality play on a truly monumental scale. The Tantamount management advised leaving the children at home for this one. Running time is 3 hours, and they wouldn't understand it.

Not seen recently on the Peninsula, "La Dolce Vita" features an international cast headed by Marcello Mastroianni, Anita Ekberg, and Anouk Aimee.

On its first run, "La Dolce Vita" was called on one hand the greatest Italian film ever made. On the other, an outrageous and scandalous disgrace. Nevertheless it won the Cannes Grand Prix and went on to be a smash hit around the world.

Parents meet new Tularcito principal

Phil Smith, the new principal of Tularcitos School, would like to meet the parents whose children will be attending Tularcitos next fall.

A series of receptions have been arranged with the principal and parents, by Sandy Cisnereros. They are as follows:

The first meeting will be for the parents in the Ford Road area. The reception will be at Val Spaulding's house at 7:30 p.m., August 7. Arrangements can be made by calling 659-4495.

Maggie Hallisey will also have a reception at 7:30 p.m., August 7. This reception will be for all those in the Cachagua Valley area and parents should phone 659-2613 for information.

The third meeting with the new principal will be at Jane Barelli's house at 12:30 p.m., August 8. This meeting is for the parents in the Paso Hondo and Paso Cresta areas. Information can be obtained by calling Jane Barelli at 659-4798.

Gail Buché will have the fourth meeting with Phil Smith in her home, at 7:30 p.m., August 12. She'll introduce him to the parents in the Robles Del Rio area. For more information on this meeting, call 699-4183.

Hannah Bremner will hold the last meeting with the principal at 2 p.m., August 12 for parents in the Rancho area.

According to Sandy Cisnereros, the new principal is anxious to meet and talk with everyone.

Dr. Irv Orlin, who has recently been practicing medicine in the Valley for the past six months, plans to continue his practice in the Valley permanently.

Orlin studied medicine at Down State Med. Center in New York. He originally moved to California and later the Valley because he liked the people.

"The patients are excellent," he said, "and the Valley itself is beautiful."

Orlin plans to move his family of five into a house, as soon as he can buy one, and he also plans to move into a larger medical building in the near future.

FEEDBAG

By LUCY SMITHSON

An intrepid young man from Cachagua has started on a ride that will make all us home-bound horse lovers envious. Richard "Stan" McClain of Featherbow Ranch and a good little grulla gelding plan to spend the rest of the summer on the road. Their destination is Eureka, in northern California, 410 miles from the Valley.

Stan packed his horse with sleeping bag, windbreaker, saddlebags and about thirty pounds of necessary traveling gear. He has good hiking boots and expects to walk much of the way.

We met him walking and leading his horse near River Ranch. He explained he had been on the road two days already, coming from Cachagua. Much of the delay was in finding a blacksmith to shoe his horse. The horse, he explained, had been pastured for six months. The horse is not used to steady work nor traffic, Stan said. Every big truck on Carmel Valley Road bothers the horse. Stan leads him in a new rope halter and a bosal hackamore, for riding, is hooked over his saddle horn.

Stan would like to ride on bridle paths or even down the river bed. But he can't ride down the river, due to at least one property owner not willing to let people on his land. The most recent owner of River Ranch, Will Garland, does not allow travelers to cross his land. Garland lives in Los Angeles.

At one time, the Trail and Saddle Club had arranged that the river bed from the Village to the ocean would be open to horse traffic, but that never passed.

Stan figures his horse will become accustomed to traffic. He hopes to ride up Highway 1 to San Francisco, across the Golden Gate Bridge, and then up to Eureka.

Stan is carrying no feed for his horse. He can neither afford it nor can the horse pack it. He plans to get around the financial problems by stopping at ranches each night and working for his supper--and his horse's supper.

"There's always work to be done on a ranch," explains the suntanned young man. "Fence repair, post hole digging...also, ranch people are usually friendly and helpful."

We figure ranch people will be envious. We sure are. Good Luck on your trip, Stan.

So how do you get a horse from upper valley to lower valley without a horse trailer? Is there any way past that bottleneck-blind hill-fast traffic intersection of Los Laureles Grade and Carmel Valley Road?

Where do you teach a horse that traffic and people are harmless? Along busy dangerous roads. Our horses need to know more than horses used by the Mounted Police before they venture near Carmel Valley Road. Mounted Police never encounter cement mixer trucks and skip jacks at fifty-five miles an hour.

It's true that there are a lot of people lobbying for trails. Trouble is, those lobbyists represent cyclists and hikers. Nice people but unafraid of traffic. Bicycle trails along the highway will not do for horses. The money that is currently being spent for trails will not benefit the horseowner-taxpayer.

Nobody wants to accept responsibility for horseowners. At the Washington D.C. level, Steven Quarles, Special Council to the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, is pushing for legislation that would require each state to exercise responsibility for protecting its own environment.

Roy Feucher, Assistant Director of Recreation for the U.S. Forest Service says that any progress made on horse trails in the next few years will have to be made at the local level.

Douglas Wheeler, Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Fish, Wildlife, and Parks says that emphasis on trails goes for hiking and bicycle paths. Recreation areas in or near major metropolitan areas are also being stressed in Federal planning.

At the State Level a trails committee of the State Legislature in Sacramento headed by George Dean is interested only in maintaining trails already existing on State property. It builds new trails only on new State property although such acquisitions are being made to connect with existing trails on National Forest lands.

California State Horsemen's Association used to be very active in promoting trail construction and acquisition at the State Level. They hoped for a continuous trail through the Coastal mountains the entire length of California. Now, Fred Lane, trails chairman of the California State Horsemen's Association, advises members of smaller horse organizations to "get out and physically work to build the trails you need in your area."

At the local level there is no activity among the horse-owners. Vic Farr of Carmel Valley tried to start a local chapter of Equestrian Trails International here but couldn't get a dozen horsemen interested. ETI does not build trails, just rides them, but there aren't that many trail riders here.

ETI and CHSA together caught a quick one that the State Legislature tried to put over on horsemen this spring. 2.7 million dollars was voted to be spent on Hostels for the use of hikers and cyclists. Thanks to pressure from the two horsemen's groups these hostels will be available for the use of riders also.

2nd summer

Hidden Valley

Hidden Valley Music Seminars opens its second summer session this week with the beginning of the 1974 Orchestra season, Aug. 4 at Sunset Center. Students from as far distant as Israel and representing several of the continental United States are gathering to study in the nationally acclaimed music program. Participants will be conducted by Dr. Michael Zearott.

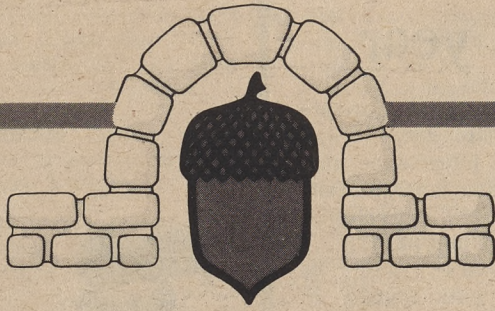

Zearott, returning to Hidden Valley for his eighth summer was the 1969 winner of the Dmitri Metropoulos International Conducting Competition; was assistant to Rober Shaw at the Atlanta Symphony and was the Associate Conductor of the National Orchestra of Monte Carlo with Igor Markevich.

Reservations for the concert series may be made by telephoning the Music Seminars' office in Carmel Valley at 659-3115 or by contacting the Julia Marlowe Ticket Agency in Sunset Center.

College television starts 2nd year

College by Television, a new concept in community education, will be back on the air in September with two college credit courses which can be "taken" on home television sets.

The fall semester courses include:

--Law for the 70's, a 16-week introductory course explaining the many aspects of law citizens encounter today which will be presented in half-hour segments on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays beginning Sept. 23. Broadcasting channels and air times are KGO channel 7 at 6:30 a.m. and KQED, channel 9 at 3 p.m. The programs will be repeated on a delay basis on KTEH, channel 54 at 6:30 p.m.

--Consumer Experience, a 15-week course on consumer behavior and the strategies used by marketers in shaping their appeals to consumer preferences which will be presented in half-hour segments on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning Sept. 24.

Broadcasting channels and air times are KGO, channel 7 at 6:30 a.m. and KQED, channel 9 at 3 p.m. KTEH, channel 54 will carry the series on a delay basis at 6:30 p.m.

KSBW, channel 8 in Salinas, will carry The Consumer Experience program on Sundays in hour-long segments at 7 a.m. beginning Oct. 6.

Vince Bradley, director of continuing education, said the courses are being made possible by the Bay Area Community College Television Consortium, a group of 21 colleges throughout the San Francisco and Monterey Bay Areas. MPC is the southern most college in the group.

College by Television is a new concept which has been under intensive investigation at MPC in the last several years and "we can now offer first-rate courses which are fully developed," Bradley said.

MPC will be scheduling periodic meetings where students and faculty members will be able to discuss the progress of the classes. Students will be able to contact local course instructor Sephan Grant at all times by telephone to ask questions about the programs.

Generally students will be able to view the program on their home television sets and follow the lectures with the aid of textbooks and workbooks which will be the only cost for the program.

There is no tuition or registration fee for either course. The only requirement is that the home student have access to a television cable to bring in KGO, KQED or KTEH. KSBW can be received off the air.

Persons in the Santa Cruz-Watsonville Area should contact their nearest community college for information on these classes.

Law for the 70's, which was presented last spring for the first time, has been updated over the last several months due to changes in California law.

Included in the series are such topics as the California court structure, torts, negligence, and liability without fault, criminal law, adoptions, dissolution of marriage, personal and real property, real estate finance, leases, wills, California inheritance tax, partnerships, incorporation, bankruptcy, copyrights, trademarks and patents.

The course will be televised with Donald P. Lyden, who has practiced law in California since 1959 and has his degree from the University of California, Los Angeles.

For more information contact MPC Registration Desk at 649-1150.
